3. Things to note

- The use of reference in a slide is very important, which can show others the range of years, the authors, the name of the journal or the conference.
- Try to use images to interpret some complicated concepts.
- The report should reflect your thinking, not just list others' viewpoints, thus the audiences can benefit from it.
- Communicating is important for us grown-ups, and the style is free.
- We should relate theory with practice, if we have some ideas, just try to do some experiments to certify them.

- Learn to use the cues that you already have(e.g. a slide of a lesson), to further track some related information(e.g. the online course and the author).
- Senior students should utilize their knowledge and experience to help the junior students save twists and turns.

4. Tasks in the next week

- The next meeting will be hosted by Qiu Xinxin.
